

Adega Urbana Évora_27

Évora - European capital of culture 2027.

Promote the idea of rawness.

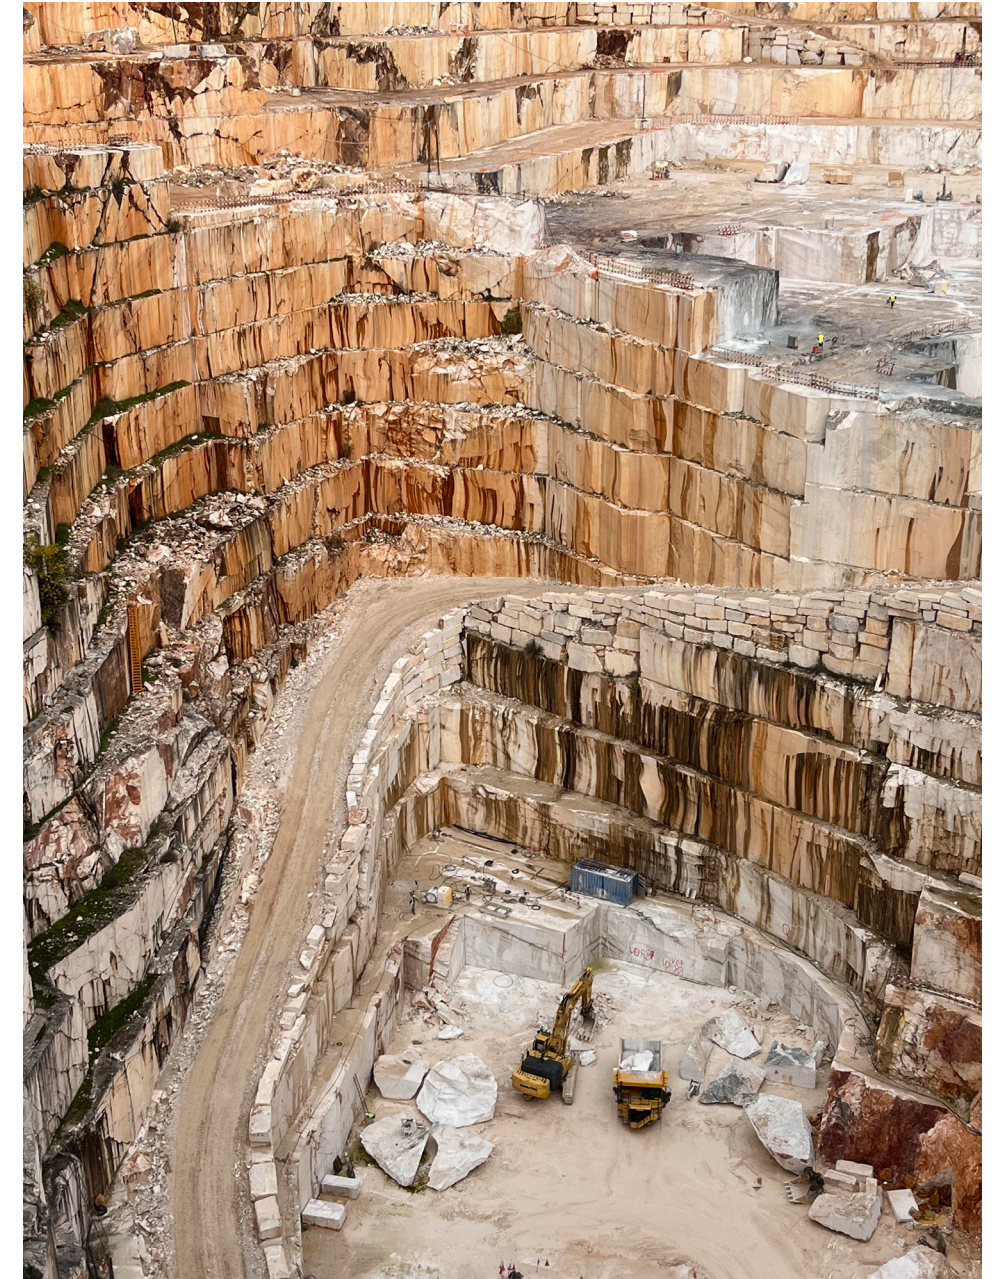

Concept

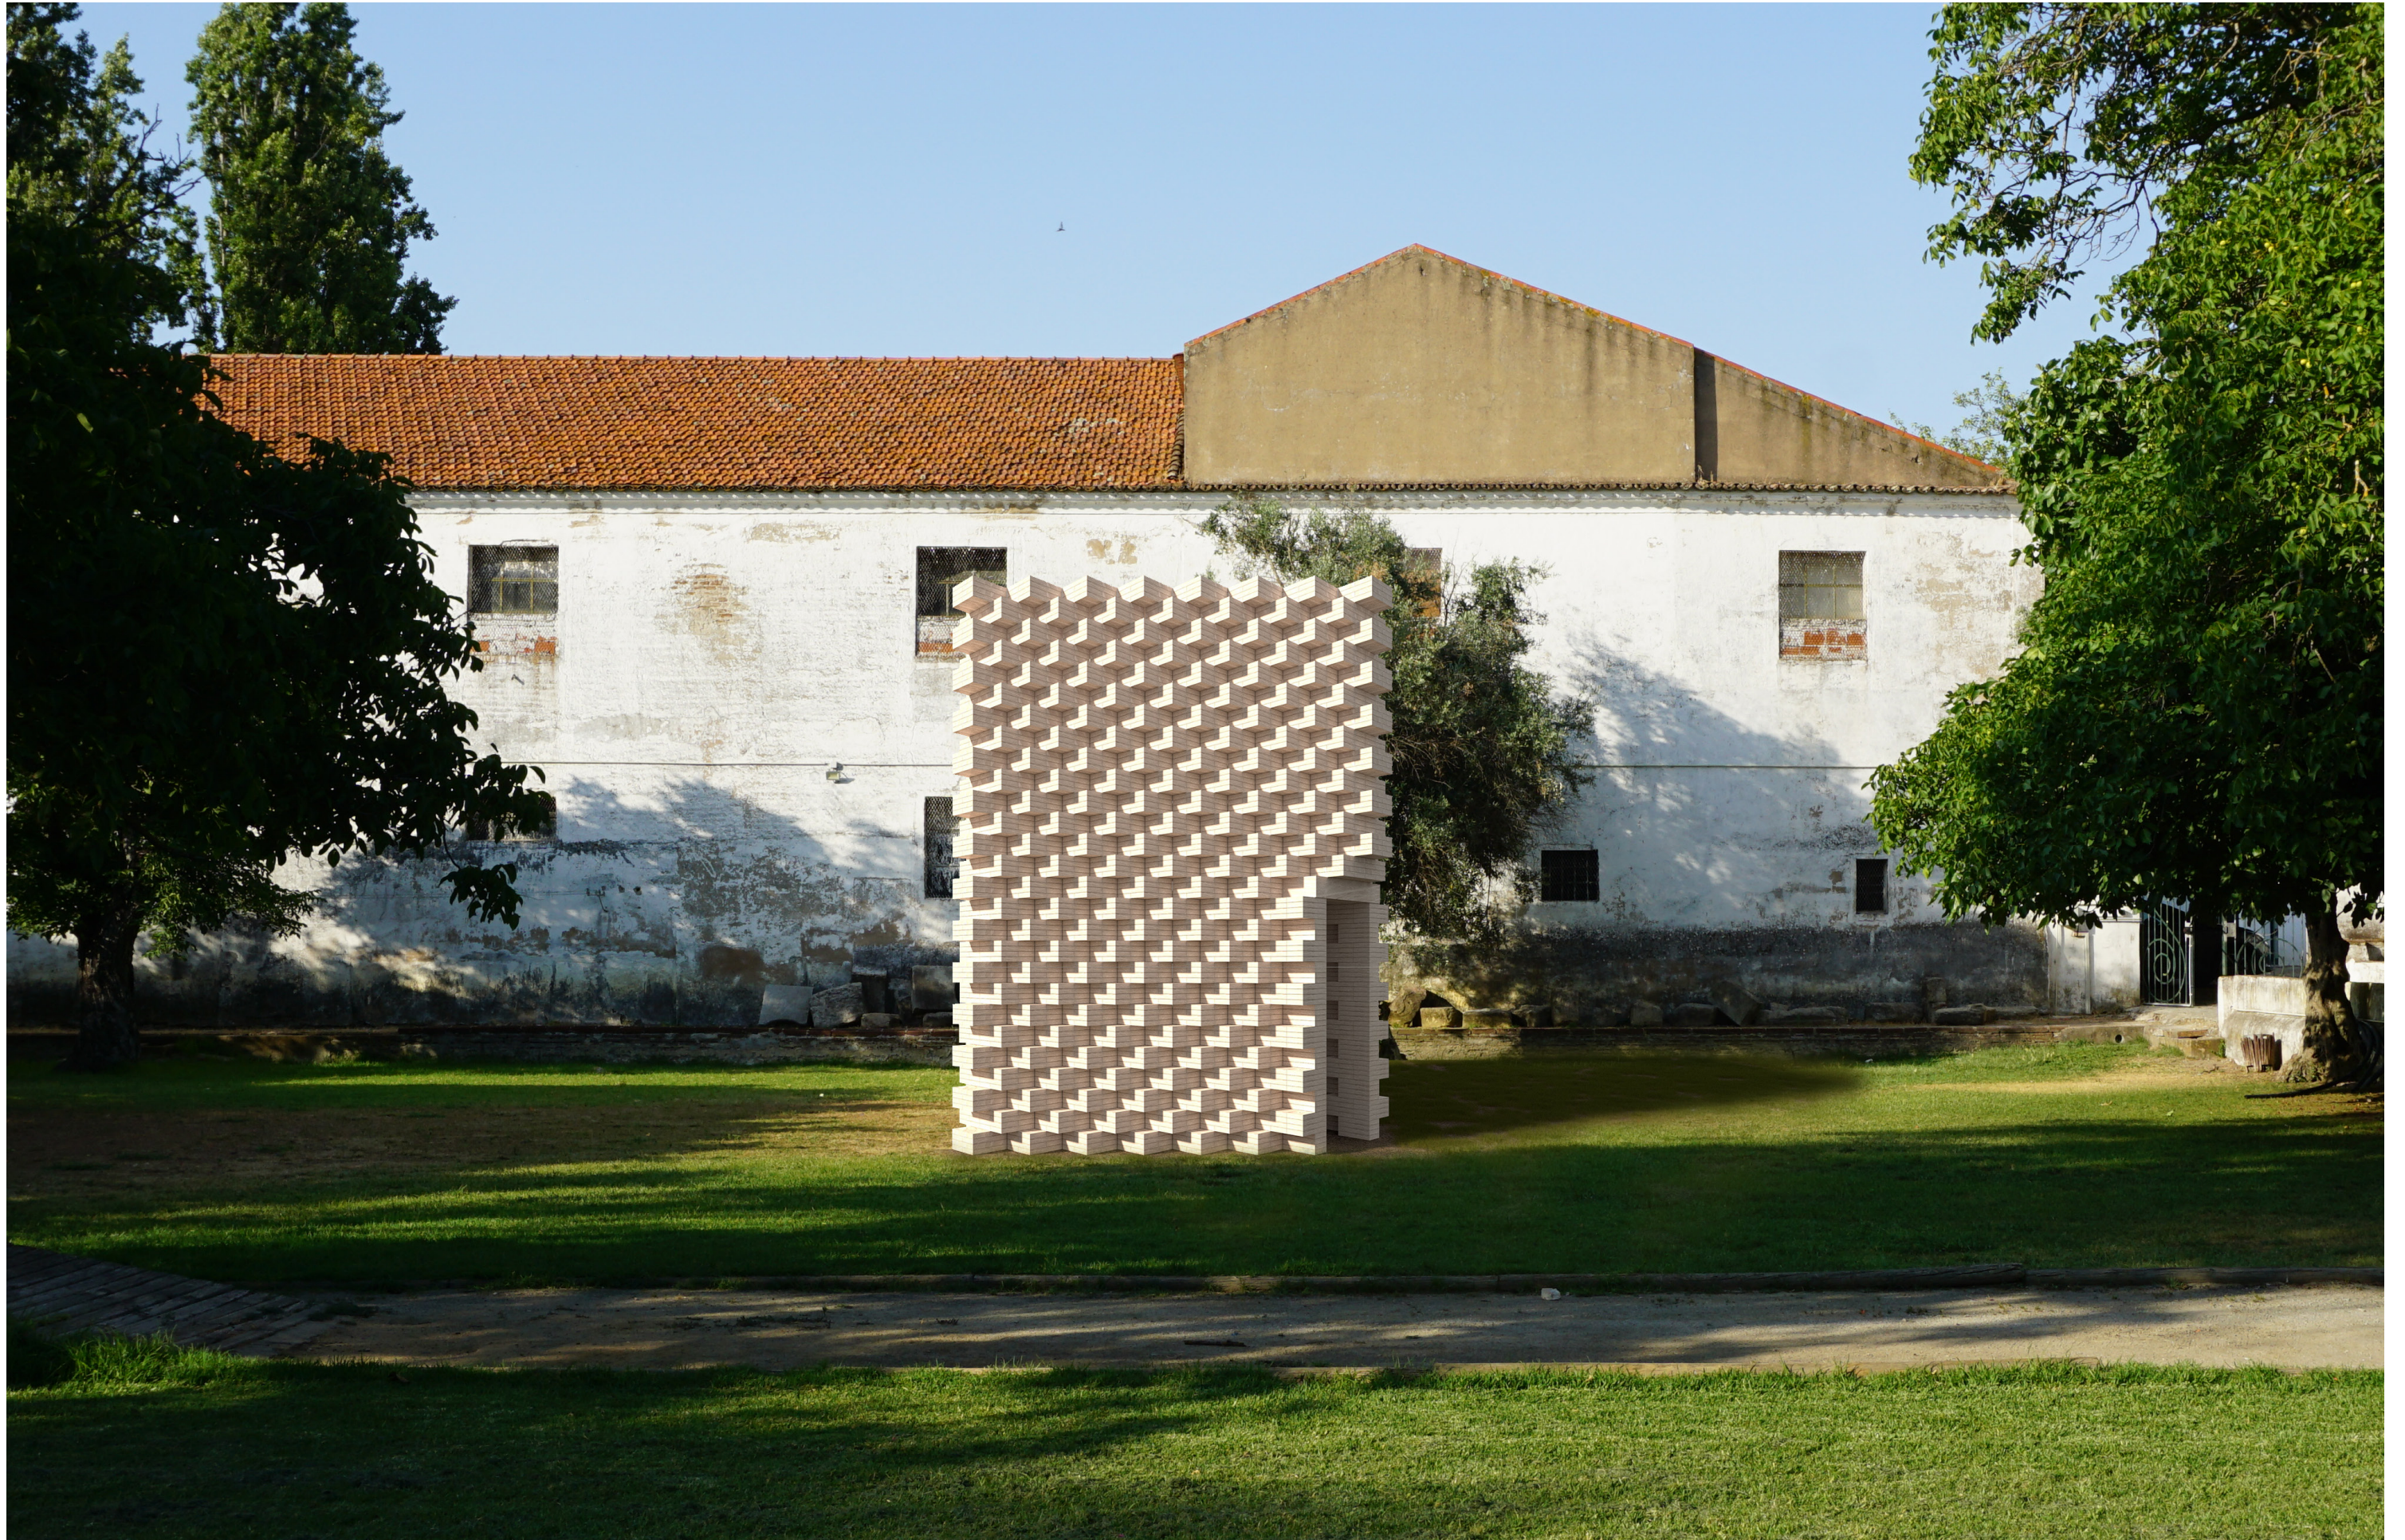

Activation through fermentation workshop

Why marble? Local, structural & cool.

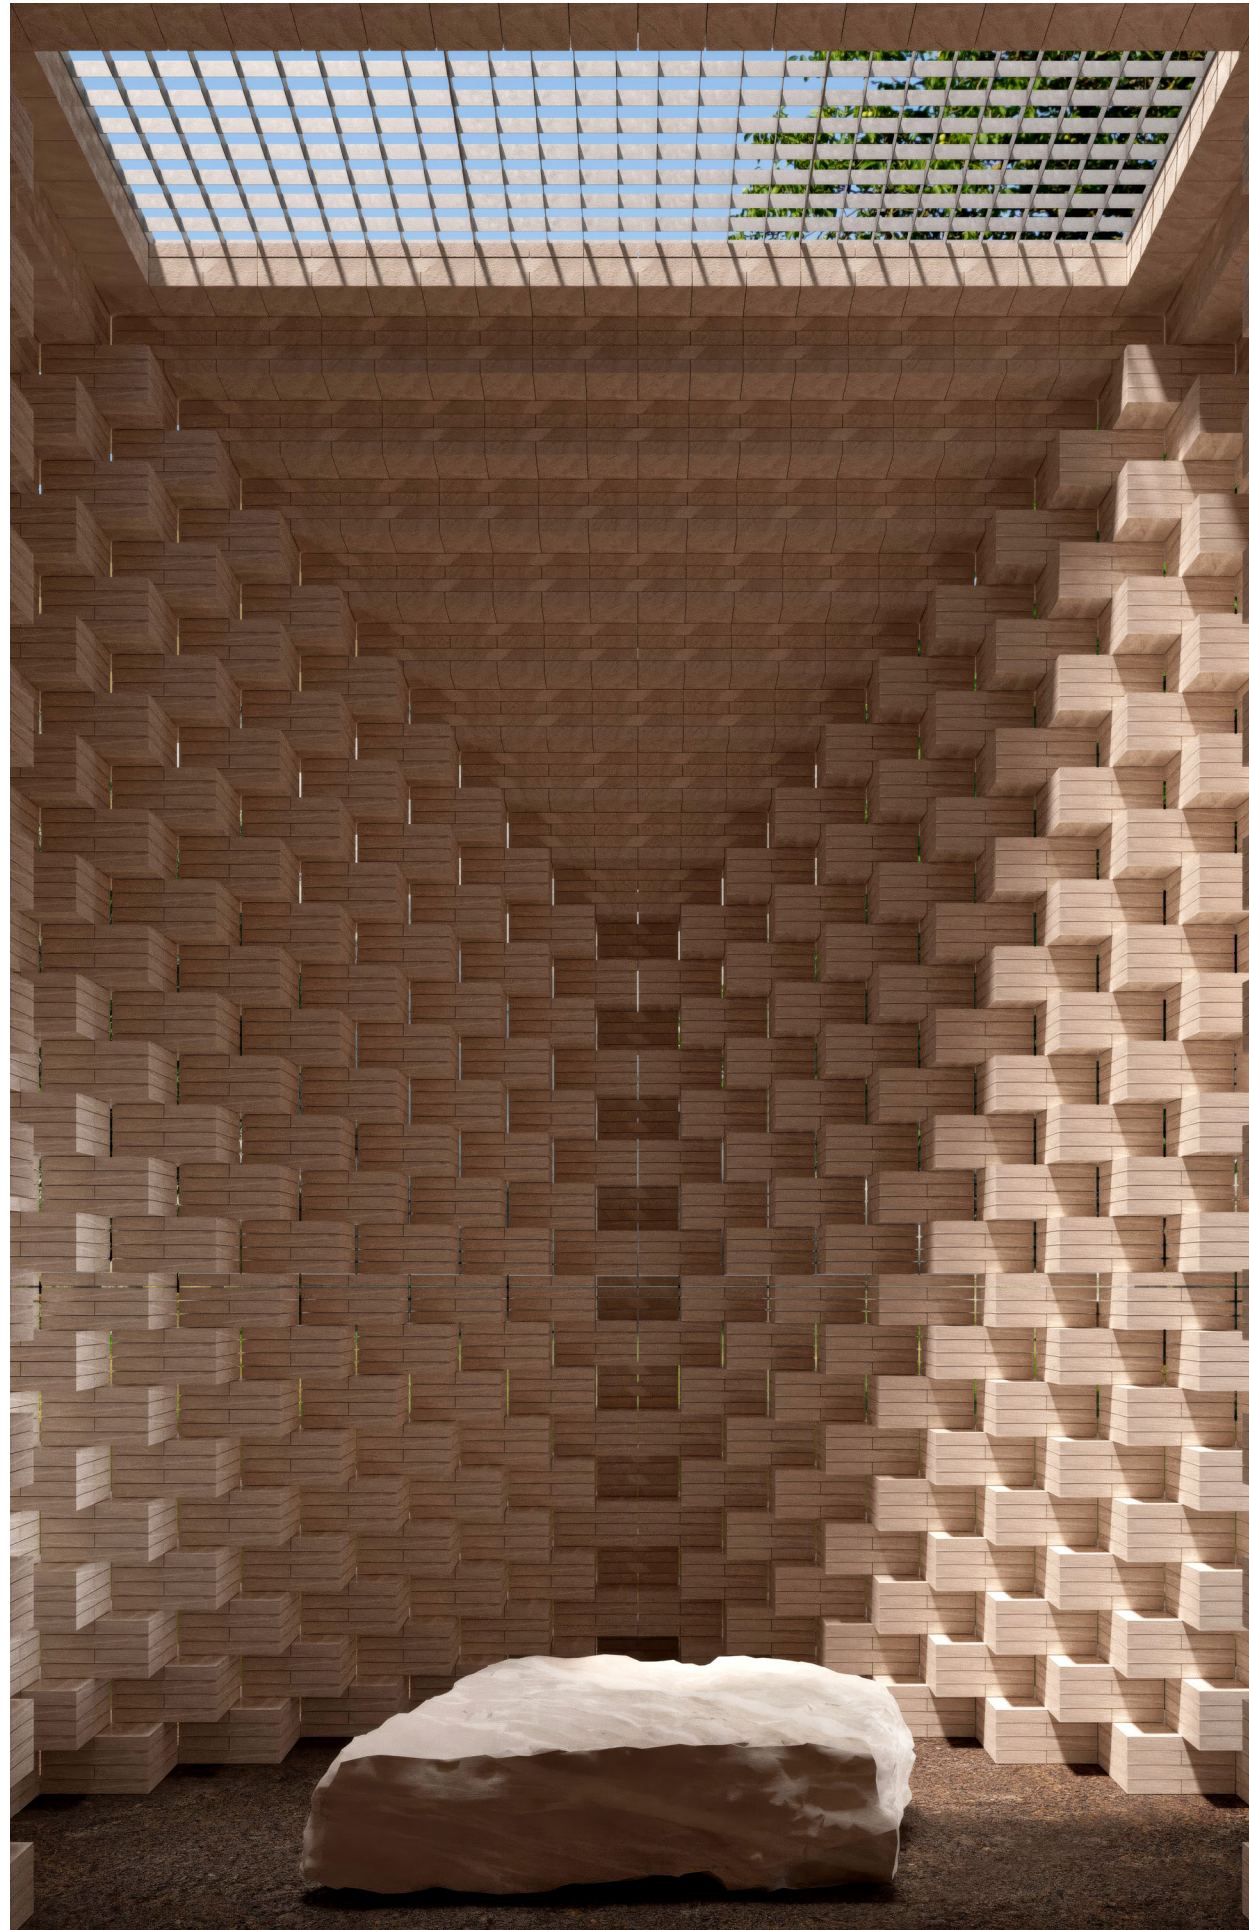

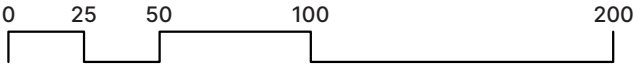

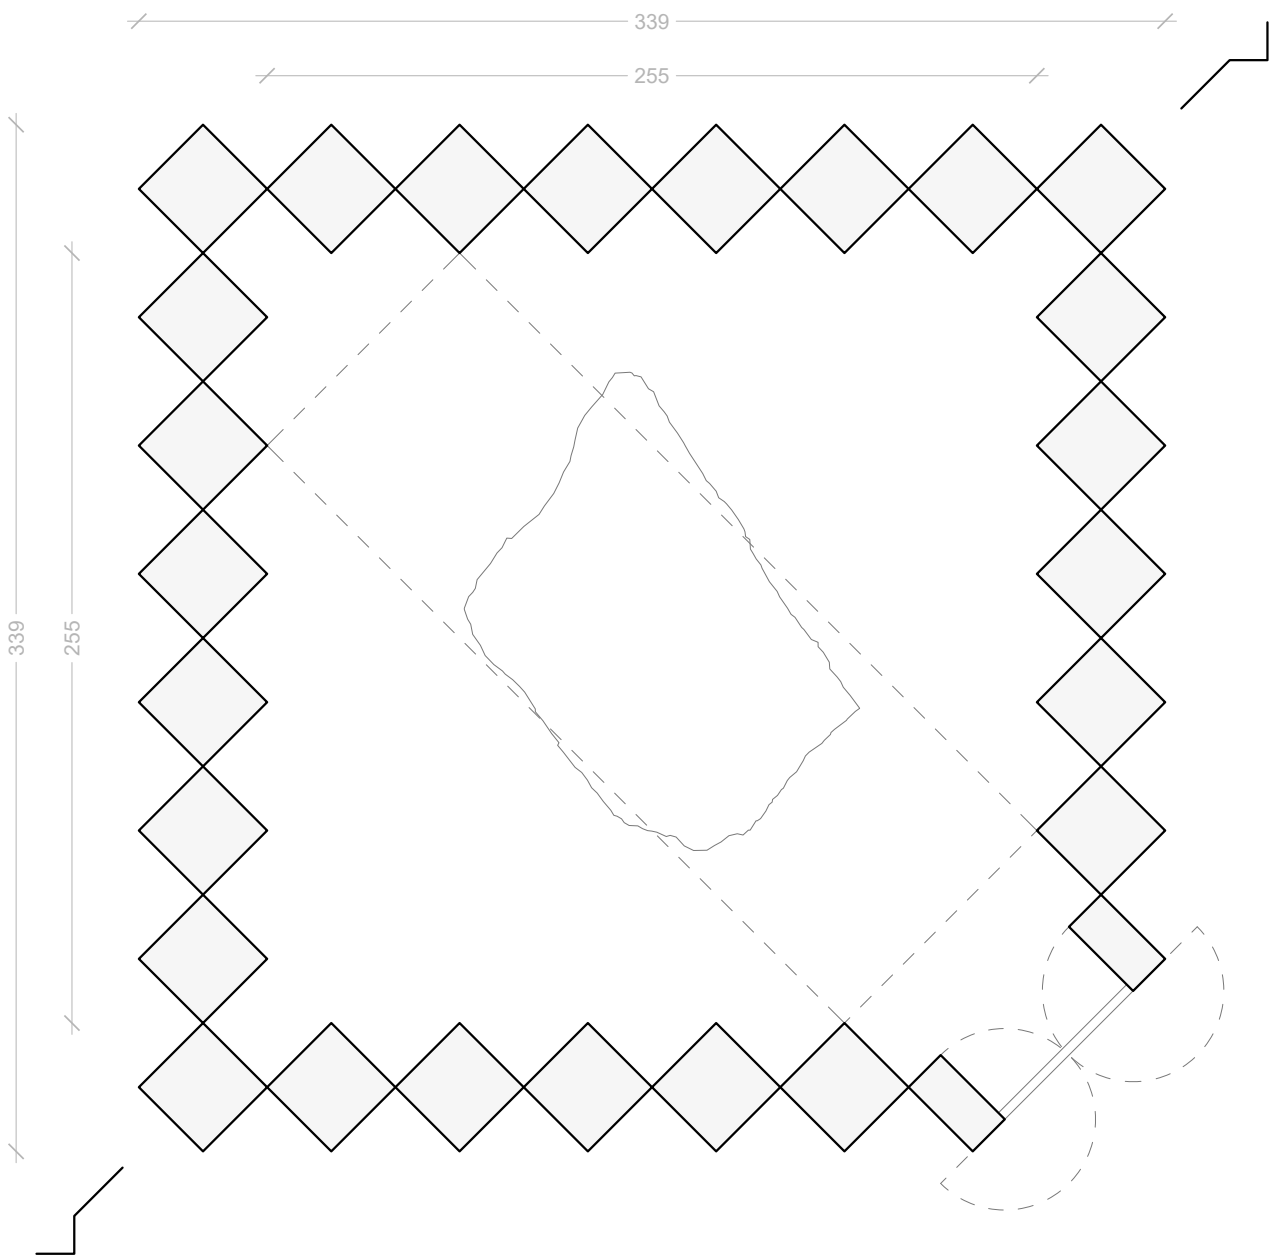

Project

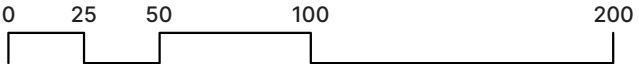

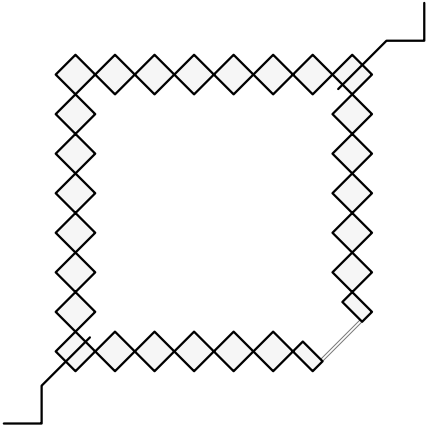

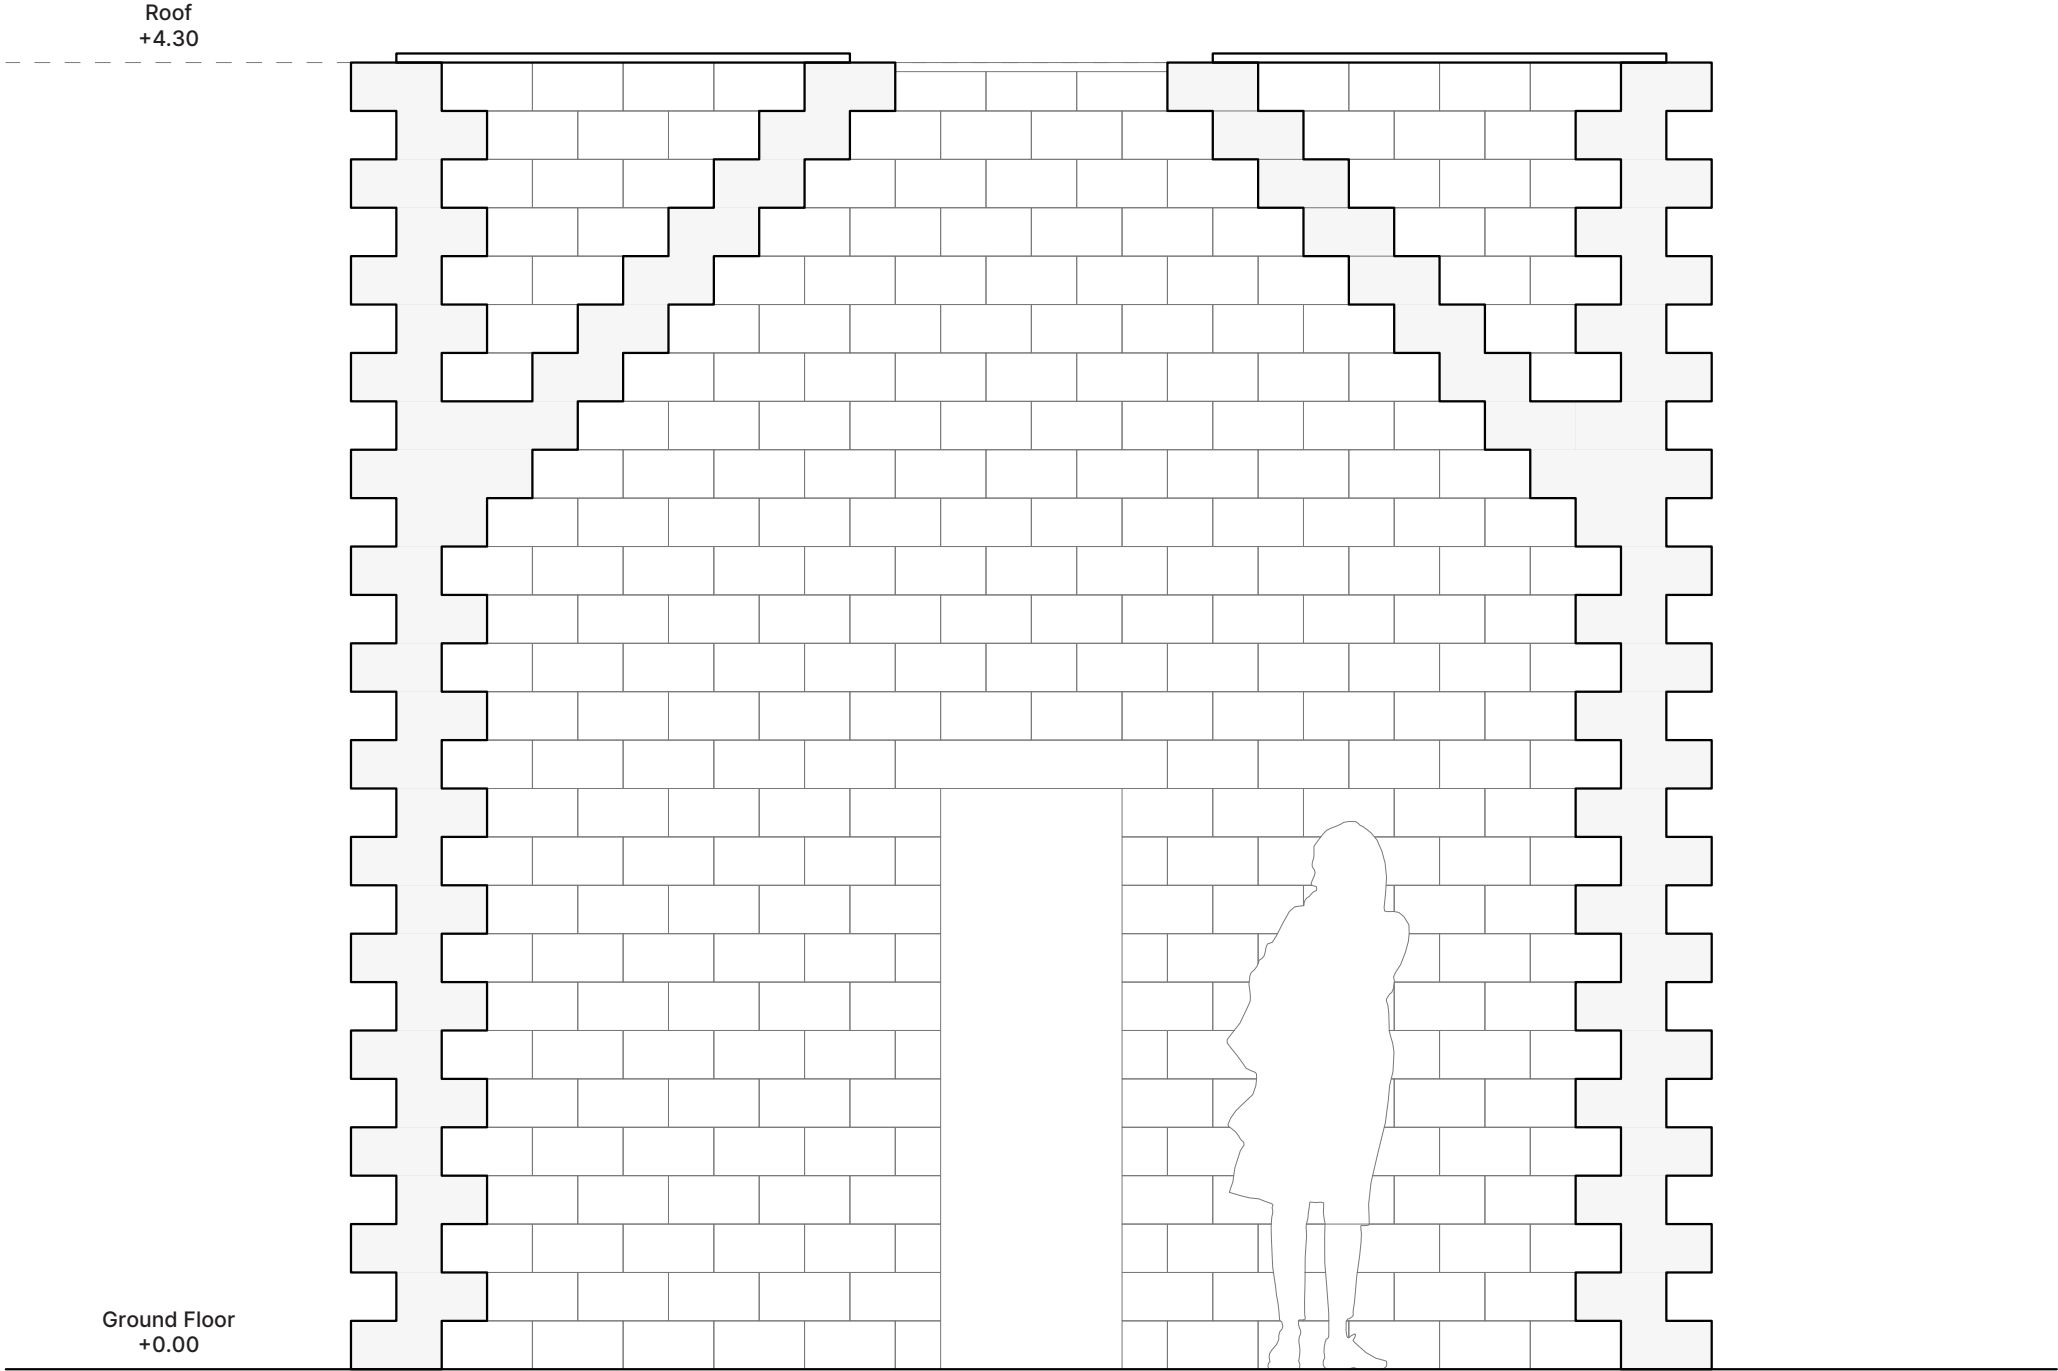

Project

Technical informations

Dimensions

Height : 4.32 m

Width : 3.40 m

Length : 3.40 m

Interior space : 6.5 m²

Marble

Bricks dimension : 15×30×4 cm

Bricks quantity : 6680

Volume : 12 m³

Weight ($\rho = 2\,700\text{ kg/m}^3$) : 32,46 tonnes

Logistics

Distance from quarrie to site : 65 km

JMBAD

About

JMBAD is an architecture and design studio founded by Joseph Melka and Balthazar Auguste-Dormeuil.

We make architecture, but also furniture, exhibitions, objects, temporary things, speculative things. We try not to do the same thing twice. Our work often sits somewhere between disciplines, and our process leans heavily on making: drawing, building, testing, failing, trying again.

Clients

We work with cultural institutions, municipalities, private clients, and the occasional friend. Recent projects include works for Villa Noailles, Chanel, Concentrico Festival and the Beta Architecture Biennial.

Bio

Joseph Melka (FR, 1996) is an architect. He collaborated with prestigious studios in Tokyo and New York before establishing his practice in Paris. He studied at the University of Hong Kong (China) and earned his degree in architecture from the Paris-Malaquais School of Architecture (France). He currently pursues a research post-master at Paris La Villette School of Architecture.

Balthazar Auguste-Dormeuil (FR, 1997) is an architect. He has regularly collaborates with different practitioners, institutions and municipalities to develop architectural design projects, research or publications. Balthazar has held teaching positions in different architecture programs and is regularly invited internationally as a guest critic. He studied architecture at the Kyoto Seika University (Japan) and the Paris-Malaquais School of Architecture (France), where he graduated with Highest Honors.

Press

Among other publications, our work has been featured in the Architectural Review, Archdaily, Architectural Digest France and Spain, IDEAT, Têlêrama.

Distinctions

Évora 27 Open Call, Laureate (2026)

Concentrico Festival, First Prize (2025)

Villa Noailles Design Parade, Finalist (2025)

Registration

Ile-de-France Board of Architects number: S26270

JMBAD

16 rue de Candale, 93500 Pantin

www.jmbad.com

info@jmbad.com

+33 6 34 11 51 00 / +33 7 75 76 97 42